

NAVIGATING THE ROAD TO RECONCILIATION:

GENERATIVE DIALOGUE ON INDIGENOUS ETHICS.

Sarah Jacknife
Lauren Remple
June 25, 2024

Generative Dialogue

Flow

- Presencing
- Boundaries relax
- Distributed sense of self within group
- Commitment to emergence

Inquiry

- Suspension of judgement and view
- Slowing down
- Empathic listening

- Politeness and caution
- Ignoring what is beneath the surface.
- Judgemental Listening
- Instability in the container (group)

Politeness

- Expressiveness
- Reactive
- Combative listening
- Identified with own perspective as truth.

Breakdown

Breakout Questions Round 1

In breakout groups, consider how the Indigenous ethics concepts discussed in the guide show up in yourself, work, and community.

ETHICAL SPACE	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
PARALLEL PATHS	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
TWO-EYED SEEING	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
JAGGED WORLDVIEWS COLLIDING	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
4 R'S OF INDIGENOUS RELATIONSHIPS	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
HUMILITY	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
TRUTH	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
RESPECT	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION
COLLECTIVE	SELF	WORK	INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

Breakout Questions Round 2

In breakout groups, pick two of these questions and discuss.

- Think about how maintaining accountability to relationships rather than just transactions can impact international cooperation. What strategies can you employ to foster trust and long-term relationships with global partners?
- What role does the International Cooperation sector have in conducting work aligned with Indigenous ethics?
- How do the values of respect and humility shape your interactions with people from diverse cultural backgrounds, including Indigenous communities worldwide? How can you facilitate cross-cultural exchanges that promote understanding and respect for Indigenous traditions, practices, and processes globally?